

PAINTINGS BY MIRIAM

It's been an exciting time. In March, my practice, Paintings by Miriam, became a certified New Jersey business. In April, I participated as an artist in the Daffodil Day Festival in Moorestown, NJ. I thoroughly enjoyed my first outdoor tent display of my paintings, a mix of landscapes and abstracts.

I enjoyed sharing the stories and inspiration behind each painting. I received good feedback and interest in my paintings.

But the highlight of this beautiful day was inviting children to add to blank canvasses I had prepared with gesso, their strokes with a dollop of paint on the brush. Over 48 children contributed to these 3 creative abstracts. The parents were just as excited and grateful for this fun activity. I look forward to returning next year.

My collection of firsts:
 first acrylic painting, first oil, first abstract, first award-winning painting, first still, first mixed media, first dream-inspired painting & more.
 July 2021 - February 2026

My collection of my first paintings displayed in our home wall “gallery.”

If I had not lost my theology adjunct professor position to the pandemic (I taught theology, world religions, and spirituality & healing), I would have never reinvented myself and become a painter.

To date, and since I began playing with paint in 2021, I have created 123 paintings. Also,

- 1 solo exhibition; next solo exhibition is in October
- 1 award-winning painting
- 1 plein air painting competition
- 11 group exhibitions
- 1 outdoor festival

I’d never painted anything in my life, except walls at home. Now one of my walls is adorned with my paintings.
